STORY: The Prix de Diane Longines, the world's top race for fillies, offered an amazing spectacular sporting rendezvous in the unique atmosphere of the Chantilly racecourse on Sunday (June 14). Lanfranco Dettori on Star of Seville won the coveted title of this top-level flat race day in front of more than 45'000 ecstatic spectators.

Dettori, the winner of Epsom Derby four days ago kicked clear with two furlongs to go and held off the challenge of Physiocrate at Chantilly. Star Of Seville is owned by Lady Bamford and trained by John Gosden, who also saddles Golden Horn. Dettori had been without a Classic win since 2011 prior to these victories.

The Prix de La Reine Marie-Amélie Longines, the 2'000-meter race for amateur female jockeys was won with style by Catherine Rieb-Menard on Geonpi.

Finally, the Prix Longines Future Racing Stars supported by the Swiss watch brand offered gifted young jockeys from all over the world to compete against each other. The 2015 future racing star was Tommaso Scardino from German Jockey School on Theo Danon. He received an elegant Longines watch as well as a bursary for his school.

The star of the event was actress Aishwarya Rai Bachchan who awarded Sandra Challal with the “Mademoiselle Diane par Longines” prize for her outstanding style.
